COLE'S CHARTER

PASSES THE RAILROAD COMMITTEE.

The People of Rome on the Charter Question—General Gordon at Columbus, Miss., Agitating the Georgia Pacific—The Knoxville and Augusta.

COLONEL COLE'S CHARTER PASSES THE COMMITTEE.

The charter asked for by Colonel Cole, representing the Cincinnati and Georgia company, and under which the road to Rome is to be built, passed the railroad committee by a practically unanimous vote, only one member, Mr. Branson, voting against it. It was passed after exhaustive discussion and some slight amendment, and in such shape as satisfies the movers in this enterprise, we believe. It need not be said that it guards the interests of the state carefully. The fact that it has passed the railroad committee by such a vote proves that. We presume there will now be practically no further opposition to the bill.

ROME AND THE CHARTER.

Rome July 28.—There is general indignation felt among the citizens of Rome at the opposition now being brought against the granting of a charter to Colonel E. W. Cole for building the Atlanta and Rome railroad. The unanimous feeling of our business men and others is in favor of the road, and it is believed that the fight now being made against it is not in the interest of the State road, but to favor a powerful syndicate which wants to crush out all competition. They believe that the specious argument of the injury which the new road will work to the state road is only a clever pretext to arouse public sentiment. But even this cannot succeed. Besides the manifest unfairness of legislating in favor of a railroad because it belongs to the state, such legislation would effectually destroy the prospects of future investments by capitalists in Georgia, and greatly retard the material development of our state.

This opposition to granting railroad charters could easily be done away with by proper legislation. We want all the roads we can get, and the plan suggested below by Colonel Joel Branham, of this city, should meet the favorable consideration of our representatives. He says: The general assembly should not only charter the Atlanta and Rome railroad, but should perfect and pass a general railroad charter, such as obtains in the state of Alabama and other states, as in section 1696 of the revised code of Alabama, under which, voluntary associations or incorporations, for this purpose, are formed by merely filing a declaration in accord with the provisions of this law, in the office of the secretary of state. This is an easy means of affording a speedy and efficient way of incorporating all railroads that may be hereafter needed in this state. A general charter could be made available as exigency may arise. It would save legislation of each special company, and therefore expense. Colonel Branham thinks there is no constitutional objection to a general charter. It is true the legislature could only charter railroad companies, but the plan suggested required no order of court, and the legislature could by one act incorporate all railroad companies. He says the object of the state in the sale of the Macon and Brunswick railway was to furnish the people with two competing lines to the coast, and that the sale of this road had, by reason of Cole's purchase, furnished a competing line parallel with the Macon and Western railroad. But for Cole's purchase, perhaps, the object of the sale of the Macon and Brunswick railroad would have been defeated, for the act under which the sale was made authorized the purchaser to connect the Macon and Augusta and the Georgia railroad by Clinton station and Covington. The Georgia railroad company, which owns both of these roads, was now allied through the Nashville system with the Central railroad company, and a connection of the two roads above named would have complied literally with the terms of the act, but defeated its spirit. There is no reason why competing companies against private railways should be chartered and the state excepted, when the public interest suffers thereby. Let us have two competing lines traversing the whole state, from the mountains to the coast. Railroads add to the taxable property of the state and increase the value of our lands and our commerce. These views are heartily indorsed by every Roman, and our city is fully alive to her own interests in this matter.

The writer has interviewed several of our most prominent citizens and finds but one sentiment, and that is strongly in favor of the new road. It was at first thought that the building of a direct road from Rome to Atlanta would greatly injure the present roads, but such will not be the case. There is plenty of travel and freight to make money for two roads, even if they were built parallel to one another. Besides developing the rich section of country through which it would pass, the Atlanta and Rome railway would relieve the great blockade of freight which so greatly inconveniences our business men in winter and spring, and would greatly aid in building up our thriving little city.

THE COLUMBUS AND ROME.

Columbus Times.

Knowing that the readers of the Times are always eager to learn something of the prospects of the extension of the Columbus and Rome railroad, we make it a point to publish every word which drops from the lips of those who are supposed to know anything about the matter. Yesterday afternoon while we were meandering down Broad street in a vain search for an item to interest the public, our eyes by chance fell upon the handsome form of Dr. E. C. Hood, the ex-president of the company which sold the road to the present owners. we at once greeted the doctor and applied our gimlet with substantially the following result:

"Doctor, the readers of the Times would like to know something more about the Columbus and Rome."

"Well, what do they want to know about it?"

"We are more interested in the extension than anything else. Can you tell us whether it is to be carried forward?"

"I do not believe that it will be."

"Why, how is that? Thought you were confident that it would be when you sold?"

"Yes, I was, but recent developments impress me very strongly that I was mistaken."

"You don't think that we have at last fallen into the hands of the enemy?"

"Yes, sir; I think the purchasers bought it with the intention of letting the terminus remain at or near where it now is."

"Do you not think that it will even be extended to Greenville?"

"I do not; it will doubtless be extended to Chipley, which is about one mile and a half north of the present terminus, but it will not be carried any farther."

"Doctor, we did not think that you would thus deliver us into the hands of our enemies."

"Nor did I; but notwithstanding the precautions which we took in making the sale and the repeated expression of almost every member of the determination to run the road at a personal sacrifice rather than sell to a company inimical to the interest of Columbus, it seems that it has been done, and it is too late to be remedied."

"It is rather changing the subject, but what do you think of the rumor that certain parties made $50,000 out of the transaction?"

The doctor did not appear to be willing to talk too freely on this subject, but we have our own opinion of what he thought about the matter.

The question of the extension of the Columbus and Rome road is one of vital importance to Columbus, and we would regret very much to know that it has passed into the hands of parties who will not extend it. We do not know upon what grounds the doctor based his opinion that it will not be carried forward, but he seemed to be very emphatic and to know what he was talking about. We hope that he is mistaken this time, for the Columbus and Rome railroad is the only hope of an outlet for Columbus. We will patiently await further developments.

THE GEORGIA PACIFIC.

Columbus, Miss., Dispatch.

General John B. Gordon, president of the Georgia Pacific, Colonel W. S. Gordon, Major John W. Johnston, of Virginia, vice-president of the construction company that has taken the contract to build the Georgia Pacific from Atlanta to the Mississippi river, and Colonel W. W. Gordon, of Richmond, attorney for the Richmond and Danville, arrived in our city Monday night on business connected with the Georgia Pacific, and to consult with Major E. C. Gordon, manager of the western division of said road. They were quartered at the Gilmer, and many of our prominent citizens called on them. Yesterday the party went out on the line in course of construction to the east.

Last night a meeting was improvised at the court house, and our best citizens filled it. In response to a very general desire and request, General Gordon made a brief talk. Our people have been anxious, perhaps over anxious, as to where the Georgia Pacific would run. General Gordon said enough, and more than enough, to allay any and all anxiety. He said that his company were prepared to do all they had promised to do, and more. They would build the road east to Atlanta, there to connect with the Richmond and Danville, and the Pennsylvania Central, putting us within forty-one hours of New York. And the freights would be reduced proportionately with the saving in time and distance. This is all we can ask. What we want, what we need, is direct, speedy, cheap connection with New York and the Atlantic. This, the Georgia Pacific will give us. And it brought down the house when General Gordon expressed the belief that his road would be completed in time to carry next year's cotton crop over it.

A resolution of thanks to the distinguished speaker, an expression of harmony with and sympathy in the enterprise of which he is the head, and pledging the people anew to carry out all their promises and obligations to the Columbus, Fayette and Decatur railroad, to which the Georgia Pacific succeeds, were unanimously adopted by the meeting. After adjournment a large number pressed about General Gordon, for whom our people have unbounded admiration and respect. General Gordon and party go from here to Aberdeen, and from there to Greenville, on the Mississippi river.

THE KNOXVILLE AND AUGUSTA.

Augusta Chronicle.

The locomotives of the Augusta and Knoxville now halt by the side of the Savannah, and in a few days will make music in the woods of South Carolina. The two divisions of the iron bridge from the Georgia side to Walton's island and from Walton's island to the South Carolina bank, have been finished. and there only remains a trestle on Walton's island to make the link between the two states complete. This trestle will be worked upon as rapidly as possible, and trains will be able to cross the river some time next week. This distance over Walton's island, from one division of the bridge to the other, is two hundred yards. The bridge altogether, leaving out this intermediate space, is over six hundred feet long. It is to be built of iron and steel, and is one of the finest and most substantial bridges in the United States. It is now ready for the reception of the rails which, as stated above, will be built as soon as the trestle on Walton's island is built. The bridge will be formally turned over to the officers of the road this afternoon. Next week, when the trains can cross to South Carolina, there will be an excursion of the directors and officers of the road and members of the press to the then end of the line. We understand that in a short time Mr. W. C. Sibley will carry out a excursion party to the same point, for a small fare.

The company is now building a passenger coach which will be ready in about two weeks.

The work across the river will proceed as rapidly as possible. The force is now well organized and although there is a good deal of trestling to do, it will be pushed forward with dispatch under the superintendence of such an accomplished engineer as Mr. Twiggs.

THE MACON EXTENSION.

Macon Telegraph.

Yesterday passers along the street gazed curiously upon a long line of carts and wagons which finally paused in front of the store of Messrs. Price's Sons, where a goodly stock of provisions was laid in. Inquiry revealed the fact that the carts were from the plantation of Mr. James of the firm of W. D. Grant & Co., in Jefferson county, and bound for a point in Captain R. E. Park's lands, seven miles from Macon. A force of convicts arrived at that point in the morning and in a few minutes the sound of the axe was heard, and the Macon and Brunswick extension was begun. This force is a portion of the convicts leased to Grant & Co. The force is now engaged in clearing the right of way.

THE ATLANTA AND ROME RAILROAD.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

General Alexander was asked yesterday to explain his opposition to granting Cole a charter. "Have no objection whatever," said General A. "It is customary in Georgia to charge the Louisville and Nashville with all manner of crimes, of which it is entirely ignorant and innocent. During the last gubernatorial canvass it was said the Louisville and Nashville was pushing Colquitt; then it was said the Louisville and Nashville was trying to prevent the building of the Georgia Western, and now they say we are trying to prevent the building of the Rome and Atlanta road. This is all nonsense. We know, even if Cole should fail to get a new charter, there are several in existence that will do as well as a new one. The Louisville and Nashville is not trying to destroy competition; we expect competition, and have no fear of it. We are in a position entirely satisfactory; we can meet any kind of competition to any point, and we shall do so. Our object is not to destroy, but to build up. As far as we are concerned Cole might have his charter to-morrow; it was the Louisville and Nashville which gave Gordon his Georgia Western charter, and made that road a possibility."

CHANGING THE GAUGE.

New Orleans, July 29.—At 4 o'clock this morning the work of changing the gauge of the Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans railroad (Great Jackson route) from the five feet standard gauge to four feet six inches was commenced. The entire line from New Orleans to Cairo, a distance of 550 miles, exclusive of the siding, together with the Kosciousko branch of 22 miles, was completed and trains were running in all directions at 3 p.m. to-day. To complete this herculean task a force of 3,000 men were employed, being distributed along the line. This is the greatest feat yet accomplished in gauge changing, and to Colonel L. P. Brien, assistant manager, is the success mainly due. It is estimated that the actual cost of the work is about $300,000. All trains, passenger and freight, will run on schedule time to-morrow (Saturday) as usual.

THE CINCINNATI SOUTHERN.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

There is to be a meeting of certain prominent railroad gentlemen held in New York city on Friday, the 5th proximo. Among the number to be present are Messrs. Clements and Ingalls, of this city; Mr. J. H. Devereux, president of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton and Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis, and Mr. H. J. Jewett, of the Erie railroad. The object of the meeting is not for the purpose "of flanking the tax-payers of Cincinnati by absorbing or driving away all competition for the lease of the Southern road;" not for the purpose of "forming a ring to gobble" or "steal" the Cincinnati Southern railroad, but simply for the purpose of making a bid for the road, and, in the event of such a step being decided upon, to agree upon the terms to be offered and some definite plan for act on—purely a business-like transaction.

ALABAMA COMMISSIONERS.

Montgomery, Ala., July 29.—C. P. Atmore, general passenger agent, and J. M. Culp, general freight agent of the Louisville and Nashville road, are here to represent the company before the railroad commission in the revision of passenger and freight tariffs. The commission will be occupied the balance of the week revising the tariffs of the several roads of that system in this state.

PARIS AND GREAT NORTHERN.

Galveston, July 29.—A special to the News from Austin says: The Paris and Great Northern railroad company filed their charter here yesterday, providing for a standard gauge railroad from Paris to the Red river, a distance of 30 miles. The capital stock is $200,000.

RAILROAD ITEMS.

—The survey of the Columbus and Western, formerly the Savannah and Memphis railroad, is being made from Childersburg by the Narrows to Shackelford's Gap, on Oak Mountain, thence to Allen's two miles north of Highland, thence through Wadkin's Gap, in Shade's Mountain, and Walker's Gap, in Red Mountain, to Birmingham.

—It is reported that Governor Brown has filed his resignation as vice-president of the Texas and Pacific railroad, and that it will be accepted in a short time, and that he will be appointed to the position of general solicitor of all the Gould roads, with headquarters at St. Louis.

FOREIGN FLASHES.

ENGLAND.

London, July 29.—The Morning Post says: We understand that immediately after the publication of the letter of Cardinal Guibert, archbishop of Paris, to the pope sympathizing with him in regard to the scenes at the removal of the remains of Pope Pius IX, Marquis D. Noailles, French ambassador to Italy, visited the Italian minister of foreign affairs, expressing the regret of the French government at the publication of such a document.

The total number of petitions presented in the house of commons during the present session of parliament praying the house to reject any change in the law which may be proposed for admitting atheists to the parliament is 1,392, with 230,595 signatures, and the number of petitions praying for an alteration of the law is 673, with 115,541 signatures.

Lord Randolph Churchill, in an extravagant speech to-day, moved his resolution on the reading of the land bill, that bill being the result of a revolutionary agitation, encourages the repudiation of contracts, is opposed to individual liberty, is calculated to diminish the security of property and prosperity in Ireland, and to endanger her union with Great Britain. Gladstone followed, ridiculing Churchill and powerfully justifying the bill. He said it will be unbecoming in him to eulogize the measure, but attacks against it were such as did not necessitate its defense.

Mr. Gibson, conservative, replied to Mr. Gladstone, and after William Shaw, home ruler, had paid high tribute to Mr Gladstone, the desultory discussion was continued by Lord Elcho, Mr. Warton, and other extremists amidst the evident impatience of the house, the only effect being to prevent the third reading of the bill being taken at the morning sitting. The house finally suspended its morning sitting until 9 o'clock to-night and the sitting of the lords was suspended until 11 o'clock in hopes of it taking the first reading of the bill to-night.

In the house to-night the bill was read the third time and passed by a vote of 220 to 14, the minority being exclusively composed of conservatives as follows: Bartlett, earl of Bective, Gorst, Dixon, Harpland, Sir Henry Hilland, Hon. John Hubbard, Mr Onslow, Viscount Fulkestone, Mr. David Scott, Mr. Schruber, Mr. James A. Campbell, Sir Henry Tyler, Mr. Warton and Mr. Whitney.

A majority of the conservatives and some Parnellites, including Mr. Parnell, abstained from voting.

In the house of lords to-night the bill was read for the first time. The second reading was fixed for Monday next.

The Daily Telegraph says some indignation is felt by the conservatives at the government's acceptance of Mr. Parnell's amendment to the land bill, adding to clause 44 a proviso that an action for rent pending at the same time as the application for fixing the judicial rent, be suspended until the latter is determined. The smallness of the minority vote is attributed to the absence of members, who, if the usual notice of the amendment had been given, would have been present. Messrs. Goschen, Hi[illegible]eage and some other moderate liberals abstained from voting the advisability issuing.

The Times in an editorial this morning, says that we are in no way pledged to the support of the ameer of Afghanistan.

The viceroy of India telegraphs as follows: The battle between the ameer and Ayoob Khan lasted from 8 o'clock until 11 o'clock in the morning

The new steamship Serriats is being fitted with 98 electric lamps.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

In the house of commons to-night Lord Hartington, secretary of state for India, replying to the question as to whether the government would support the ameer said if the viceroy of India considered further steps necessary he would communicate it to the government, and until the government received further information they did not propose to take any steps. He (Lord Hartington) was not aware that the ameer had applied for assistance. General Hume had been instructed to concentrate his troops at Quetta, so as to provide against any disturbance there.

SOUTH AMERICA.

Panama, July 20.—The latest news from Peru is to afternoon of the 11th inst. In Magdalina on Sunday, the 10th, a quorum was finally obtained, the Peruvian congress was organized and the business of legislation commenced. A large number of spectators witnessed the first regular session, at the opening of which President Calderon presided. The presidential message is a brief document, and throughout renders apparent the difficulties, doubts and dangers by which the provisional government is surrounded. Never, perhaps, was the president of a country called upon for an official speech under circumstances so painful and perplexing. The Chilian army, in possession of the capital; a rival claimant to power perambulating the interior towns and with an army at his command many times more powerful than the few recruits who acknowledge the authority of the provisional government, no archives, no treasury, no revenue, ministers with empty portfolios, no records, but painful memories of the rule of Pardo, Prado and Pierola, who have brought the perdition of Peru. Prado and Pierola are held up to public condemnation. President Calderon sets two objects before the legislative bodies—the first, restoration of the constitutional regime; and second, an honorable peace with Chili. Fifty senators and eighty-five deputies were sworn in at the first session after the delivery of the message. Calderon resigned the provisional presidency, but was immediately elected constitutional president.

FRANCE.

Paris, July 29.—A decree has been promulgated ordering elections for members of the house of deputies on the 21st of August and the second ballots on the Saturday following. The chamber of deputies in spite of the government's only desiring a partial sale, has passed the bill for the sale of the whole of the crown diamonds, the proceeds to be donated to the museum fund.

NOURISHMENT

FROM THE COUNTRY OF THE CZAR.

"Koumiss," a Celebrated Tartar Stimulant, Administered to Mr. Garfield—The Condition of the President—Pulse, 98; Temperature, 100; Respiration, 19.

Washington, July 29.—11:50 a.m.—The president is having another quiet, comfortable day. Since the morning bulletin his temperature and respiration have remained normal, and his pulse is below 100. His nourishment to-day has consisted chiefly of the juice of freshly roasted beef, milk, and prepared meat extract as an experiment. The surgeons have also given him to-day, a small quantity of a Tartar beverage known as "koumiss," which is in great repute among the Calmucks of southeastern Russia as a nutritious and slightly stimulating drink. "Koumiss," as prepared by the Tartars, is a thin, whitish fluid with a milky taste and a slightly pungent flavor and is made by distilling mare's milk while it is undergoing a process of fermentation. It has a great reputation in southeastern Europe and western Asia, not only as an invigorating stimulant, but as a nourishing food, and a large establishment, popularly known as the "Koumiss Cure," was founded on Volga river near Samaria, a few years since and was visited by invalids from all parts of Russia.

8:30 a. m—Immediately after the evening dressing yesterday the president's afternoon fever began gradually to subside. He slept well during the night and this morning is free from fever. He looks well and expresses himself cheerfully. No rigors have occurred during the past twenty-four hours, nor at any time since the 25th instant. A moderate rise of temperature in the afternoon is to be anticipated for some days to come. At present his pulse is 92, temperature 98 4-10, respiration 18.

12:30 p.m.—The president bore the dressing of his wound well this morning, and exhibited very little fatigue after its completion. The appearance of the wound, the character and the quantity of the discharge, and the general condition of the patient are satisfactory. He rests well, and takes an adequate quantity of nourishment. At present his pulse is 98; temperature, 98.4; respiration, 19.

8 p.m.—The president has been comfortable and cheerful during the day, and has had quite a nap since the noon bulletin was issued. The afternoon febrile rise came on later, and was not so marked as yesterday. The wound has been discharging freely, and looks well. At present his pulse is 98; temperature, 100; respiration, 19.

The following was sent to-day: Minister Lowell, London: At 1 p.m. the president's condition is reported as entirely satisfactory. A slight return of fever is expected later in the evening, and will probably for some time be a daily accompaniment at this stage of his progress.

Blaine, Secretary.

11:30 p.m.—The president has had a very favorable day, and there is marked improvement in his condition to-night as compared with that of three days ago. He has taken in the past fifteen hours the full allowance of nourishment, and there has been a slight increase in his physical strength. The febrile rise, which came on as usual this afternoon, was less strongly marked than yesterday, the maximum temperature being about one-half degree lower. There was freer discharge of pus at the evening dressing of the wound, and it was of a perfectly healthy character. Shortly after the evening examination the fever began to subside. The patient fell asleep and has slept most of the time since. He is now free from fever, with pulse below 100 and temperature and respiration normal. The surgeons report that his condition is in every way satisfactory.

The following was sent to-night:

Lowell, Minister, London: The president's afternoon fever was less to-day than yesterday and at this hour, 11:30 p.m., it has almost disappeared. Temperature very nearly normal. His wound is in a healthy condition and he is doing well in all respects. His physicians are greatly encouraged.

A COY BRIDE.

The Curious Matrimonial Adventure of a Young Woman of the Eastern Shore.

Baltimore Gazette.

Mrs. Annie Souder, nee Cullen, as stated in yesterday's Gazette, arrived here on Tuesday in the Tangier with her brother and went to the house of some friends on North Ann street. Yesterday a reporter of this paper called to see her and was politely received. The young lady was in no wise embarrassed, but told the story of her singular matrimonial adventure freely, and, possessing intelligence and sincerity, the interview was of the most interesting and pleasing character. She is very pretty, being about medium height or slightly under, with an excellent figure, a clear complexion and dark brown hair, so that it is no wonder that Mr. C. W. Souder became enamored of this fair denizen of the eastern shore. She states that she became acquainted with Mr. Souder three or four weeks previous to her marriage.

Her father, Mr. Jacob Cullen, keeps a store in Crisfield, and Souder went there to sell jewelry, as he made his living peddling jewelry through the peninsula. One Thursday, about the early part of April, she went driving with Souder. She had always hitherto avoided being alone with him, but on this occasion understood that she was going to see her sister. After they had gone some distance into the country Souder asked her to marry him. She refused and told him that she did not love him, and would rather die than marry him. Souder then threw a marriage license into her lap, and told her that if she did not marry him she would never get back to Crisfield alive.

Becoming frightened, she consented to go to the minister's. Before they arrived there he told her that if any minister should endeavor to prevent the marriage he would kill him. Thus her fears for the minister's life prevented her from informing him of the circumstances attending the marriage. The ceremony was performed and the two returned to Crisfield. As soon as she reached home the lady informed her brother of what had taken place. He at once made the facts known to his father. The lady protested that she did not love her husband; had been forced to marry him and would not live with him.

As both father and brother sided with her, Souder, though objecting very strongly to the sequel to his marriage, was compelled to go to his hotel without his bride. Matters have remained in this condition ever since. Souder has had several interviews with his bride of an hour, but she still remains obdurate and refuses to soften her sentence of banishment. She states that he would frequently pass her on the street and speak to her, but she has steadily refused to notice him. On Tuesday, partly to avoid him altogether, she came to Baltimore, as stated, with her brother. Souder was in the same boat. He approached to speak to her, and asked her why she was angry and whether she would not return to him. In the presence of her brother she again told him that she did not love him and would not live with him.

GUITEAU.

Points in the Divorce Proceedings at Brooklyn.

New York, July 29.—The Brooklyn Eagle prints, to-day, a story of the proceedings in an action brought in the Kings county supreme court in the fall of '73, by Annie J. Guiteau, against the now notorious Charles J. Guiteau, for absolute divorce on the ground of infidelity. The case was referred to Levi A. Fowler as referee to take testimony and report. The case came on for hearing in July, 1874, and Mrs. Guiteau produced but three witnesses, and one of those was her husband, who appears to have voluntarily attended. He testified he was her husband, and had resided in New York state for more than a year, which, as the law then stood, was all he could testify in a divorce case to which he was party. The third witness was the principal one, and her appearance would indicate that Guiteau helped to prove the case against himself. Their witness was Clara Jenning, of Twenty-first street. She testified that she had known Guiteau since the previous August, and that the charges of infidelity against him were true. It is believed that Guiteau secured the attendance of this witness, and it is said he first informed his wife of his infidelity, and gave her the necessary information to enable her to secure a divorce. He put in no defense. The referee reported in favor of the plaintiff, and on April 4, following, a motion was made before Justice Calvin E. Pratt to confirm the report of the referee. and between that date and the 11th of the same month, the judge handed down his decision confirming the report, and signing the decree of divorce. In the fall of 1873, when the divorce proceedings were in progress, and while Guiteau was carrying on his liason with Clara Jennings, he was frequenting the rooms of the New York Young Men's Christian association, and his name is on the books of that institution as a visitor. He was a member of the Calvary Baptist church, and attended the religious services of the church. After a divorce was granted Guiteau was cited to appear before a committee on discipline of the church, and when he appeared he confessed his immoralities and professed penitence, but the committee had no faith in his professions and expelled him from the church.

GIRLS WHO DIP SNUFF.

A Free-and-Easy Picnic, Where Sticks of Candy Were in Demand.

Texas Letter in the Louisville Courier-Journal.

A few trees always grow on the banks of creeks, even in the most interminable prairie, and on this occasion they were numerous enough to afford ample shade. Dinner seemed to be the main object of every one and all sat around in clusters watching the preparations being made for that event as a hungry dog would watch a boy eating, with the expectation of having a bone thrown to him. A majority of the ladies had a baby or a snuff-box, more frequently both, and nine tenths of the men were whittling and chewing tobacco and endeavoring to catch glimpses of the girls' feet. After we had been only a short time seated and most of the crowd had expressed the usual wish that they had not come and a determination never to be so foolish again, two rather good looking girls, with their attending beaux, seated themselves near us, took out their snuff boxes, and prepared to take a comfortable "dip." The men were, from their dress evidently cow-boys. Every one was well dressed, but cow-boys, on all festive occasions, excel in that respect. Their appearance was striking, and I certainly thought them fine-looking specimens of the Texas ranger, with their broad brimmed hats ornamented with a star, cord and tassel, long boots reaching to the knee, worn outside of the pants. large, jingling spurs, fancy striped shirts and jackets. After chatting merrily for a few minutes, the girls dipping furiously all the while, the gentlemen went in search of lemonade or some sort of compound made popular by the name. The girls took a mouthful of it, and, rinsing their mouths with it, spit it out and drank the rest, and with it, I suppose, a goodly portion of the snuff. My titter at the whole proceeding merged into a laugh, which I was powerless to suppress. Fortunately the objects of my mirth were unconscious of doing anything ridiculous, and probably thought—if they thought anything about it at all—that the young Texan with whom I was conversing was peculiarly entertaining. After the lemonade had been disposed of the rangers disappeared again and presently returned with very large striped white and red sticks of candy, which the young ladies, who had resumed their dipping, devoured, snuff and all.

A HUMAN BRUTE.

The Terrible Cruelty of a New York Father—Beating His Son with a Strap Full of Tacks.

New York, July 29.—Charles Eisner, an inhuman father, of this city, has been committed to prison in default of $500 bail. An eye witness of Eisner's brutality had him arrested. She thus described the awful manner in which he abuses his 11-year old son. The boy ran to her for protection clad only in his undershirt, and covered with bruises and long red welts. Behind him came his father, holding in his hand a heavy strap joined in the middle by nails, some of the points of which projected. The witness put her arms about him and drew him toward her. Eisner pushed her aside and seizing the boy by the head and shoulder, dragged him to the balcony again. The boy twisted away, escaped into the main hall, and was running up stairs when his father again caught him and carried him struggling into his room. He then flung him in a heap on the fire escape balcony, and began beating him about the head and body with the strap. Then Eisner dragged the boy into his room, where he continued to beat him. The witness went to the Thirtieth street police station and came back with Policemen Mitchell and Fay. The door of Eisner's room was locked, and the policemen, after knocking vainly, broke it open. Moans coming from a closet at one end of the room directed the policemen thither. They opened the door and found the boy huddled in a heap on the floor. His wrists were tightly bound with whip cord to the end of a broom handle passed under his knees, and his head was drawn down below his knees. He was bleeding from cuts on the head, and the cords had cut his wrists. Mitchell severed the cords and the boy fell over in a faint. Superintendent Jenkins and special Officer Chiardi, of the Children's society, were notified and took the boy to the nursery of the society. His body was striped with red and blue lines and covered with bruises, the bridge of his nose was broken, his scalp was cut and there was a wound in his left temple. His hurts were dressed and he was put to bed. Eisner passed a night in a cell of the Thirtieth street station house and was arraigned. Eisner said in his defense that his son was incorrigible. The father is awaiting trial.

THE WILLIAMS BROTHERS.

Buffalo Charley and the Bloodhounds After Them.

Chicago, July 29.—A dispatch from Maple Spring, Camp Eau Claire, Wisconsin, says that new life has been infused into the pursuit of the Williams Brothers by the arrival of eight Indian scouts with thirty bloodhounds employed out west by the United States government. The scouts are headed by Buffalo Charley and Yellowstone Kelly. With these names the public was made familiar during the Custer and Miles campaign in 1876 and 1877. Buffalo Charley's parents, brothers and sisters were killed by the Indians over six years ago since which time he has given his whole heart to the work of tracking redskins and fugitives from justice. The trail of the outlaws will be taken up in the vicinity of Doolittle's camp and the scouts will go ahead with the entire pack of bloodhounds, making such a hunt as was never witnessed in the big woods before.

An Augusta Fire.

Augusta, Ga., July 29.—The planing mill and machine shops of the Perkins Brothers were destroyed in this city by fire last night. Loss $30,000; insurance $2,500

SENATORIAL SHORT-STOPS

The senate chamber is a cool, pleasant place.

The special order yesterday was recommitted.

Senator Winn enjoys a good piece of humor.

Lots of pretty girls were in the gallery yesterday.

Senator Parks presided for a short time yesterday.

There are three Smiths in the senate—all good officers.

The senate is rapidly warming up in favor of the Cole charter.

The special order brought out some good speeches yesterday.

The senate does not skip to day but pushes ahead with business.

Senator Wilson does not talk much, but he can vote equal to the best of them.

Senator Bond makes up his mind carefully and his opinion on a subject is valuable.

GLIMPSES ABOUT THE HOUSE.

The temperance committee wants a clerk.

Mr. Smith, of Oglethorpe, writes the best hand in the house.

Phrenology can be well studied from the galleries, for below there is a fine array of bald heads

These cool days are richly enjoyed by the members after the broiling heat of the last two weeks.

One of the youngest but one of the most faithful members of the house is Mr. Mitchell, of Gwinnett.

Judge A. H. Hansell, father of Mr. Charles Hansell, the journalizing clerk of the house, is in the city. He seems to be in excellent health

Mr. Twiggs, of Richmond, made an able argument before the committee on agriculture yesterday afternoon in favor of his bill to amend the fence law.

The resolution of Mr. Miller that only the caption of adversely reported bills be read on second reading unless the full text of the bill is called for will save much time.

Mr. Clark, of Wayne, is one of the most faithful, and in a quiet way, influential members of the house. A truer or more conscientious and devoted representative never came to Atlanta.

Speaker Bacon is pronounced by strangers who visit the legislature, a model presiding officer. He expedites the bulky business of the house in a manner that is at once admirable and remarkable.

The house has on hand over 900 bills, or enough if each sheet were detached and pasted together to encircle the city of Atlanta, which is 9 miles in circumference. No adjournment in sight even with a first-class telescope.

Mr. Mays, of Richmond, was well enough yesterday afternoon to come in from Decatur, where he has been recuperating from a long spell of typhoid fever. He was congratulated by many friends on his approaching recovery.

There are frequent resolutions inviting judges of superior courts and members of congress to seats on the floor. There is really no use of such a waste of time, for all such gentlemen are entitled to seats on the floor by a standing rule of the house.

THE EXPOSITION.

THE INTEREST BEING TAKEN IN IT.

An Interview With Director-General Kimbal—What He Has to Say About the State of Georgia Being Represented By An Exhibit of Her Resources.

The reporter of The Constitution made his usual visit at the office of the International cotton exposition yesterday and found that Director-General H. I. Kimball had sufficiently recovered from his illness to be at his post of duty. After he had dispatched several gentlemen, which he does upon an average of about one every minute, the reporter got an opportunity to ply him with the usual question in regard to the prospects of the exposition, to which the director-general replied:

"I do not think there is a doubt about the success of the exposition in every department. It is not until recently that merchants and manufacturers outside of those engaged directly or indirectly with the textile industries of the country realized the fact that they could become participants in the exposition, but this matter is now being generally understood and I think the lively interest which has been taken in the past few months in the south by capitalists who are making large investments in railroads and coal and mineral interests has had much influence upon the people throughout the north and the west and they begin to look upon the south as a great market and are desirous of availing themselves of the opportunity to be fully represented at the exposition."

"Are the people throughout the south taking much interest in the matter?" asked the reporter.

"The people of the south are everywhere taking the greatest possible interest in being fully represented at the exposition except in Georgia," replied the director-general. "We have a very large newspaper mail, probably four or five hundred papers daily, including many published in our own state, and the newspapers of Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, and North and South Carolina devote on an average about three times as much space to the exposition as the press of Georgia, and the papers of the north and west probably five times as much. There are, however, notable exceptions; some of the prominent papers in Georgia are doing good work. In fact, I may say that up to the present time, outside of the press, very little attention has been given to the exposition in this state. I had the pleasure of congratulating one enterprising establishment in Augusta who applied for ground space to erect a handsome building and desired twenty feet all around it for the purpose of planting out flowers and otherwise ornamenting the grounds. That is the most encouraging sign that I have yet seen in Georgia.

In South Carolina they have taken hold of the matter with great earnestness and have organized a board in connection with the state board of agriculture which, together with the vice-presidents who have been elected from that state, are holding a series of public meetings throughout South Carolina; their first meeting occurs at Greenville to-morrow. The governor of that state has appointed commissioners in every congressional district who are working with a vim, and from newspaper reports and from information that I received from Commissioner Butler I have no doubt that South Carolina will make herself very prominent in the exposition.

The same is practically true of North Carolina. They sent an agent here last week and in a personal interview he impressed me with the idea that North Carolina would carry off the palm for her magnificent exhibit of minerals and woods, although I understand that Virginia will crowd her very closely.

Florida is also taking a very earnest stand in favor of the exposition. Her governor has called upon the agricultural societies and farmers' clubs in every county to make special efforts to forward their exhibits.

Our chief of the department of minerals and woods has been in Tennessee and Kentucky for the past ten days, and gives me daily reports of their progress. He says that those states will come up splendidly.

Chattanooga is about the first to come to the front with her representative asking liberal space for a collective exhibit. In fact, all of Georgia's sister states are arranging, through their county clubs and other organizations, to be thoroughly represented.

I have also official information from the Farmers' club of the American institute, that they are organizing throughout New York state, and will come here with a very large exhibit. They have organized also, at Piqua, Ohio, for a collective exhibit, and the agent there assures me that it will be very large and very fine. Here is a telegram I have just received from Springfield, Ohio, informing me that their committee will leave there to-day for Atlanta to make arrangements for an extensive display.

"I am also advised from New England societies that they will send a large delegation of representatives here."

"What do you hear with reference to the passage of the bill now before the legislature proposing to make an appropriation for a state exhibit?" next asked the representative of the press.

"The only action I have taken in that matter," said Mr. Kimball, "was to send out a circular to each member of the legislature and a large number of the leading business men throughout the state endeavoring to impress upon them the importance of an exhibit on behalf of the state, and quite a large number of gentlemen responded favorably to such action, but no member of the legislature has indicated to me his views or intentions on the subject. The fact is, I am terribly disappointed in Georgia's action in this matter, there is no use denying it. I have been so long talking about Georgia's resources, her liberality, her progressive, energetic business men, that I had made myself believe that if we could secure the location of this great exposition upon Georgia's soil, at her capitol city, it would require no argument or persuasion to induce her to make one of the grandest exhibits of internal wealth that was ever made anywhere on the face of the globe, and it seemed to me that it would only have to be announced in order that every farmers' club, every agricultural, horticultural, and other society in any way interested in the development of Georgia, would at once insist that she should lose no time in making every preparation for such an exhibit. Every community that has a water power, every community that has a mine, every section that requires more population ought to demand that the state provide for presenting these to the countless thousands who will be present at the exposition. The state is sovereign and it is her duty to do for the benefit of herself and her people what the people themselves are unable to do, and I have the utmost confidence that the legislature will act favorably upon the bill. I cannot see how sensible, patriotic men can do otherwise, and if they are in any way selfish and want to take in the advantages and opportunities offered, they cannot fail to make the appropriation."

AS TO THE $20,000 APPROPRIATION,

We shall print to-morrow morning the argument of a distinguished lawyer of this city on the constitutional power of the legislature to appropriate the $20,000 asked for a state display.

The argument is simply conclusive and is pressed out this morning unavoidably. It will appear to-morrow.

Yellow Fever at Havana.

Washington, July 29.—Advices received by the national board of health from Havana report that during the week ending July 16th there were 14 deaths from yellow fever, 8 from small pox and 5 from typhoid fever. The number of deaths from all causes aggregate 135 during the week ending July 23d. There were 21 deaths from yellow fever and about 120 cases in the city. Reports state that the shipping at Cienfuegos has been invaded by yellow fever, and that the American brig Ortolon and the Spanish bark Valadara, bound for Philadelphia, are suspected vessels.

A BENEVOLENT METHODIST.

George I. Seney, of Brooklyn, Gives $10,000 More to the Wesleyan University.

New York, July 29.—George I. Seney, of Brooklyn, has given the Wesleyan university another $10,000 to endow free scholarships, besides the $10,000 previously offered by him on the condition that a like amount would be contributed for the same object by other friends of that institution. Last Thursday he called on Dr. Buckley, the editor of the Christian Advocate, and announced his purpose, and afterward, in council with president Beach, it was agreed that the income of this amount should be annually applied as follows:

First—At the end of the next freshman year fifteen competitive scholarships, from $100 gradually ascending to $250, will be awarded in order of proficiency, according to conditions to be hereafter announced.

Second—At the end of each sophomore, junior and senior year, seven competitive scholarships of similar amounts will be awarded, the whole beginning with the next class, so that after the fund is in full operation, thirty six competitive scholarships from $100 to $250 will be annually awarded to those who earn them to the end of time.

A good deal has been said and written in the secular and religious press within a few years about the degrading influence of a free education upon ministers, and this has been charged with producing a decline in candidates for the ministry.

Mr. Seney's idea, therefore, was, and is, to endow scholarships which shall be competed for by the students, so that their manhood can be preserved, while they accept pecuniary assistance in getting an education. The highest sum named is about enough to put a man through annually in most of the colleges and universities of the land, so that at least thirty-six young men, whether, studying for the ministry or any other learned profession, by successfully competing for these scholarships, can come out of Wesleyan free of debt.

NASH'S NARRATIVE

Of the Killing of Revenue Collector Brayton.

Washington, July 29.—Deputy Collector Nash reports to the commissioner of internal revenue that as soon as he heard of the shooting of Deputy Collector Brayton, Deputy Collectors Byrom and Kane went to Central, S. C., accompanied by other officers. They found Knight, one of the men who was with Brayton at Easly, and took him back as a witness at the inquest. On arriving at Central, they found a large crowd of people and great excitement. The inquest being in progress they could not learn the whereabouts of McDow and no one was willing to go with them to McDow's house. The owner of the livery stable refused to hire horses to the officers. The body of Mr. Brayton had received no attention from the people; it was cared for and and sent back to Greenville. The force went to McDow's house but found it deserted. McDow's still was destroyed and every attempt was made to throw the officers off in their hunt for McDow. The coroner's jury brought in a verdict that Brayton had met his death at the hands of unknown parties. This verdict was given notwithstanding the fact that McDow had visited the town, openly declaring that he had killed the internal revenue officer, and was hunting the balance of the posse to kill them. McDow's distillery has been in operation for the past two years, within two miles of the town of Central. McDow was a very dangerous character at any time. When he visited the town intoxicated the merchants closed their stores, reopening them as soon as he left the place. It is thought McDow is still hiding at Central, and having no fears of conviction in the state courts, he will after awhile surrender himself to the state authorities. The latter have taken no action in the premises. The difficulty in the way of arresting McDow in any open manner, arises principally from the fact that the people, if not in sympathy with him, fear him and consequently are his friends. They will protect and harbor him, and the revenue officers can expect to obtain little or no reliable information as to his whereabouts.

Telephoning 350 Miles.

Buffalo, July 29.—This city has had the honor of telephone communication with the Bell exchange, at Patterson, New Jersey. The distance between the two cities is 350 miles. The series of experiments were conducted by Mr. J. F. Noonan, Paterson manager Metropolitan telephone and telegraph company, who claims to have discovered a method of adjusting batteries so as to produce good results in communicating over long distances. The Western Union telegraph company lent a No. 6 gauge wire running between the two cities Connection was made with the central office in the Buffalo exchange, where telegraphic communication could be obtained. Although the results of the test were not wholly satisfactory to Mr Noonan, enough has been accomplished to show the value of his discoveries, and to insure the possibility of long-distance telephoning Listeners in the Buffolo exchange could distinctly hear Mr. Noonan's "Halloo, Buffalo!" and songs sung at Paterson were recognized at this end of the line. In talking, the voice could be plainly heard, but the words could not be distinguished amid the heavy sputtering and snapping noises of the wire, caused by the heavy battery and by "induction" from the Western Union wires running near the telephone wire. To the latter cause probably is due the greatest trouble. Telephone men feel confident that, if a wire can be obtained remote from the wires devoted to telegraph business, conversation can be easily carried on under Noonan's method. As it was, the results of the experiments are considered of great practical value.

EXPIATION OF A HORRIBLE CRIME.

The Negro Ravisher of an Orphan Girl Hanged by a Mob.

Hichman, Ky., July 29.—Reliable information from Tiptonville, Tennessee, thirty miles below here on the Mississippi river, gives the particulars of a horrible crime and its punishment by mob law. A few days ago, the body of an orphan girl named —— Hall, who had been missing for ten days, was found in a fence corner near the public road, bearing evidences that it had been ravished and murdered in the most shocking manner. The hogs had farther added to the horrors of the body's condition. Monday last a negro named Felix Wyley was arrested, and from evidence elicited on the trial was supposed to be the criminal, Testimony showed Wyley had been seen near the place where the outrage occurred, and that he carried a heavy club with him; that a negro woman who did his washing found his clothes spattered with blood about the time of the murder. Monday night a mob of about 150 unmasked men overpowered the jailer and guard, and took Wyley to the outskirts of the town and hung him up five or six times to force him into a confession, but he insisted upon his innocence. They finally hung him up and left him. Up to the time my informant left, yesterday, Wyley was still suspended, no one wanting to cut him down.

Peoria, Ill., July 29.—J. J. Van Martiere, city editor of the National Democrat, told the associated press reporter yesterday he had discovered that the infernal machines recently received in Liverpool were manufactured in this city. A director of the association lives here, and is supposed to know all about them. The manufactory is on South Washington street.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

Peoria, Ill., July 29.—The report that the infernal machines were made here creates great excitement and is generally believed. H. W. Crowne, who was supposed to be implicated in their manufacture, denies having made them but says that he knows who did. They were made at O'Rourk's foundry, on South Washington street. They were of iron and zinc in sections. The machinery and dynamite were supplied in New York.

ALL AROUND US.

WHAT THE PEOPLE ARE DOING.

A Shocking Murder in Decatur County—Mrs. Brocket Shot By Some Unknown Party—Poisoned Watermelons—Dahlonega Dots—Athens Personals.

By Mail and Wire to the Constitution.

Bainbridge, July 27.—A shocking murder was committed in our county Sunday night about 9 o'clock. Mrs. Martha A. Brocket was shot to death at this hour at her residence, ten miles northwest of town. The weapon used was that of a shot gun loaded with buckshot. A coroner's jury deliberating and examining witnesses until 12 o'clock to-day, returned a verdict "killed by persons unknown." The murdered woman was lying in the hall on a bed with a child at her side when the fatal shot was fired. The bloody murderous missils entered her right side, and passing, two of them, entirely through the body, one grazing the face of the child. She lived to say to her sister, who was coming from outdoors towards her when the gun fired, "I am shot all to pieces." The deed was evidently done by white men. The tracks discovered next day betrayed the presence of two, and from the impression made in the ground by the feet of the perpetrators, who had their socks on—shoes off—it was apparent they who did the dastardly deed were white. Although she had neighbors who were her sworn enemies, owing to some accusations she had made against them concerning the theft of Mr. John Donalson's money one year ago, no evidence was elicited during the inquest to authorize an arrest.——William Phillips, of Miller county, a young lad of 16 years, took a watermelon from the patch of a Mr. Cook last week that was poisoned it is supposed with arsenic, from the effects of which he died soon after eating. Medical aid arrived too late to arrest the action of the poison.

Madison, July 29.—Mrs. James L. Crew, of Madison, and Colonel L. P. Grant, of Atlanta, were married last Wednesday. Colonel Grant came down from Atlanta in a special coach, bringing Dr. John Jones with him, and with a very few friends to witness the ceremony and a morning repast, Colonel and Mrs. Grant and party left at 11 o'clock. Quite a little bustle of comment and good wishes floated about our town. Mrs. Crew occupied a prominent place in Madison. With an easy refinement of manners and true nobleness of heart, she has performed full many an act of gentleness and philanthrophy which will not be known till the great records of eternity are opened. The good she has done in Madison is to her a more enduring honor than the whisper of praise, which would sometimes reach her ear, dispite her modest effort to hush the compliment. Colonel Grant has carried from us a true and noble woman. No better fortune ever befell man than is his.——Little Miss Julia Saffold is slowly recovering from the dreadful accident which befell her some weeks ago.

Dahlonega, July 28.—On the morning of the 25th G. F. Parker died, in his seventy-fifth year. He came here from New York city in 1858 or 1859. Mr Parker was a Christian gentleman and one of our very best citizens. Also died, the infant son of Dr. Jones. ——The district conference of the M. E. church, south, for Dahlonega, convenes here to-night.——Bishop Pierce is at Porter Springs, in this county, to rest and recruit his health for a short time.——J G Foreacre, W. P. Greensboro, July 28.—A shooting affray took place on the streets of our quiet little city yesterday afternoon between two young men by the names English and Hall, in which the latter was struck in the left leg, but not seriously hurt. A meeting of much interest is in progress now in the Methodist church here. Rev. Mr. Seals, the pastor, is assisted by Rev. Mr. Sam Jones.——Still dry and hot.

Fayetteville, July 29.—Dr. J. S. Bennett, who has been dangerously sick for several days, is thought to be a little better this morning. What the Papers Say.

Gainesville Eagle.

Mr. J. P. Roark, of this county, informed us a day or two since that he has a chicken who has three legs and four feet. The third leg is above and a little to the rear of the others, and on it there are two feet complete. He only uses two of the feet on ordinary occasions, but whenever for any reason he gets in a hurry, he uncouples his third leg, brings his third and fourth foot down to the gravel and splits a crack in the atmosphere that it is impossible to keep track of with the naked eye. This is no joke, but absolute fact.

Macon Daily Drouth.

We learn that Mr. J. B. Howard, living a few miles out of town, and a nephew of Mr. Henry L. Jewett, has lost his sight by using colored handkerchiefs. While at work in the field, Mr. Howard used these handkerchiefs to wipe away the perspiration from his face The poisonous dyes entered his eyes and thus the sight is lost. He went to Atlanta to be treated by Dr. Calhoun, the oculist, and has written to his relations here the facts above stated. The colors used in dying handkerchiefs, stockings, etc., are poisonous in the extreme, and we trust this sad instance will prove a warning to those who use them.

Sandersville Herald and Georgian.

On Thursday evening, Miss Lois Wood, daughter of Mr. Matthew K. Wood, of this county, while using kerosene oil in kindling a fire was seriously, if not fatally, burned. Her clothing taking fire alarmed her so that she ran to where a young man was plowing near the house, who aided in extinguishing the flames. She is badly burned on one side, and from the severity of the shock there is danger of inflammation of the brain. The unfortunate victim of this distressing accident is about fifteen years of age. The horse the young man was plowing took fright, as the young lady with her clothing in flames approached and ran away, but without serious result.

Meriwether Vindicator.

Mrs. Winslow has a large bird cage from which the bottom has dropped out but which she frequently uses for the purpose of confining chickens before killing. Last Saturday evening she caught four or five chickens and placed them under this improvised coop so as to have them ready for Sunday's meals. They were placed under the cage and sometime during the night attracted the attention of a prowling chicken thief, who, not aware of the bottomless condition of the cage, quietly slipped up and carried it off, leaving the chickens snugly nestling on the ground. While Mrs. Winslow lost her old cage, the rogue failed to capture the fowls. Imagine the rascal's astonishment when he reached his stopping place and found he had carried off a bottomless cage and left the main prize behind.

Meriwether Vindicator.

Mollie Tucker, colored, living at the James Rosser place, two miles from town, advertises the loss of her daughter Annie, nearly three years old. The child disappeared last Tuesday, and nothing has since been heard from her. Wilson Hardy, a colored tramp about fifteen years old, who had been working on the place a few days for John Maffett, colored, also disappeared at the same time, and is supposed to have murdered or carried off the child. The boy claims to have lived near St. Marks, in the eleventh district, and may be lurking in that neighborhood. The girl had on a homespun dress and is a mulatto. The boy is a mulatto, had on soiled blue pants, white shirt with large patch in back and a black hat. Keep a look out for the kidnapper or probable murderer. As we go to press news comes in that the child has been found in a large canebrake over a mile from home. The negro boy is suspected to have something to do with the child's disappearance, and is before a committing court charged with that offence.

Hawkinsville Dispatch.

A few days ago a party of citizens visited the Alapaha in search of fish, which abound in great numbers in that stream, and are easily caught at this season. The party stirred up a deep hole with their hoes and poles, and seined out hundreds. In churning up the water, a huge alligator was disturbed in his quiet repose beneath the still waters, and he began to make trouble for the fishermen. The fishermen, however, were determined to "clean out" the hole and have fish or a fight. Several of the party, led by Jim Paul, and commanded by Lawson Smith (who sat on the bank at a safe distance) went into the water to run the alligator out. Several of them seized the 'gator, some by the head, some about the body and some got "tail hold," and right out of the water they came with the amphibious creature, which appeared as much surprised as disgusted at its own weakness, and the strength of its antagonists. Out on the land they came, but in an instant the 'gaitor made a grand effort, and with one stroke of its powerful tail knocked one of the men headlong back into the water. At this juncture of affairs several of the fishermen jumped on the back of the 'gaitor, and held it down until the others killed it with their hoes and axes. The 'gator measured nine feet in length. After this adventure the fishing went on, and the party caught four hundred and forty-six.

A Mormon Mission in White County.

Cleveland, Ga., July 28.—I have read two editorials in your paper of recent date concerning Mormon operations in Georgia. It would doubtless be interesting to your readers to know something of the work of these "Latter Day Saint" emissaries in particular localities. It is well known in this section that for twelve months past there have been two Mormon missionaries at work in White county. The scene of their labors is in the eastern portion of the county and on the western borders of Habersham, on the banks of the Chattahoochee and Soque rivers Here, in a community considerably isolated and inhabited by a comparatively ignorant class of farming people, who eke out a bare living from the poor, hilly lands, these missionaries have industriously labored. The results of their efforts have been successful to a degree. An organization of some thirteen to sixteen members has been perfected, a Sunday-school of some forty pupils established, and a day school had in contemplation. That they expect to hold their ground is shown in gathering together the children in Sabbath and day schools.

On their appearance here twelve months ago, they were not met with strong opposition. Hospitality was granted to them, and they essayed to teach at several points in the county, but finally their field was narrowed down to the place above named, and to this locality they are confined. An effort to extend their work towards Nacoochee valley was defeated, not long since. Application has been made to the ordinary of the county for the use of the court house to hold service, but the request was met by that excellent officer with a downright refusal. The citizens of Cleveland would not tolerate their presence as teachers in the community, and so it follows that a "pent up Utica contracts their powers."

The missionaries are ordinary looking men, with no peculiar gifts or graces. They are preachers, and, from their personal bearing do not impress the beholder as men of piety or goodness. They claim great superiority to the "Book of Mormon over the Holy Scriptures. They claim power to heal the sick, which gives them influence over ignorant and superstitious people. There are some reasons why they are tolerated in this country. One is that they do not preach polygamous doctrines here; another is that they are careful men and are content to go slow and to make no disturbance; another is that they confine themselves to neglected places, and another reason is that there is a strange curiosity that wants to see and hear anything that is new. Let congress stop the fountain head in Utah and these little mountain springs will soon go dry.

The Foreign Grain Trade.

Liverpool, July 29.—A leading grain circular says the grain trade has been generally quiet and steady despite the renewed upward movement in America. At various spot markets the demand was moderately active, prices were maintained, and an occasional slight advance was noted. Cargoes in all positions were in meagre inquiry at unchanged rates. On spot for wheat there was a fair business at unchanged rates. Corn was a shade easier. At to day's market there was a fair attendance with a firm tone in wheat. Business was limited, and an occasional advance was asked. Flour was steady at full rates Canadian peas were strong. Corn was in a good healthy request.

Cotton Review.

Liverpool, July 29.—This week's circular of the Liverpool cotton brokers' association says cotton was quiet in the early part of the week, but latterly it was strong with a large business, and prices for some descriptions advanced. American was in good general demand, and prices advanced 1-16d to ⅛d. In sea island the sales were moderate, and rates are unchanged. Futures opened dull and quiet. Since then they have rallied, hardening throughout the week, and closing firm at an advance of one farthing for near, and 1-16d to ⅛d for distant positions.

Funeral of Col. Burch.

Washington, July 29.—The funeral services of the late Colonel Burch, secretary of the United States senate, were held at his residence at 5 o'clock this afternoon and his remains left here at 9:30 for Nashville, Tenn The pall bearers were Senators Blair, New Hampshire; Jones, Nevada; Pugh, Alabama; Butler, South Carolina; Johnston, Virginia; Colonel Bright, sergeant-at-arms; Colonel Peyton, executive clerk, and Captain Bassett, assistant sergeant-at-arms.

Massacres by the Indians.

Denver, Col., July 29.—A Santa Fe, New Mexico, special says a party of soldiers who arrived last night from Fort Stanton, report that a dispatch was received just as they left, from Mescalero agency, stating that these Indians, or a large number of them, are in arms, and that Montseilla and Roman Chiquita, chiefs, had left the agency and massacred two Mexican families living in Tularosa Canon, No official information has yet been received at the district headquarters

The Express.

Little Rock, July 29—The application of the attorney general of this state for an injunction restraining the Southern express company from transacting business in the state was heard before Chancellor Carroll to-day. The application was refused by the court, the chancellor holding that there was neither statue authorizing the injunction nor proof that the Southern express company was in arrears for taxes, as alleged in the bill of the attorney general.

The Albany Lunatic.

Troy, N. Y., July 29.—McLean, arrested in Albany yesterday on the charge of threatening to shoot Governor Cornell, left White Hall this week, as he said, to seek the sunken treasures of Captain Kidd. McLean, who is regarded as insane, said: "We have too many governors." He has several documents from the pension office, and claims the British government owes him $15,000, and the United States government $13,000.

Destructive Rains.

St. Johns, N. B., July 29.—Heavy and long continued rains are seriously interfering with the work of farmers. Great damage is threatened. The rains made a considerable freshet in Miramishie, and last night the northwest boom gave way, sending adrift some five million feet of lumber. It is expected all will be recovered. The weather cleared off here this afternoon, after an almost steady downpour of rain for 48 hours.

The Labor Trouble at Montreal.

Montreal, July 29.—Dan Leonard, secretary of the Ship laborers' society, for carrying loaded cartridges concealed on his person, was to day sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment. The case was appealed. The original charge of carrying concealed weapons was abandoned, the pistol found with Leonard and the person assaulted being missing.

A Tennessee Murder.

Paris, July 29.—At Pioneer, near here, Wednesday a man named Stubbefield and his brother-in-law, both white, got into a quarrel with some negroes. One of the negroes seized Stubblefield by his arms and held him while another blew out his brains. The negroes were arrested.

FINANCIAL FACTS.

New York, July 29.—The stock market opened generally strong and higher, but in early dealings prices fell off ⅛ to ⅜ per cent, the latter in Missouri Pacific. Address THE CONSTITUTION, Atlanta, Ga.

Entered as second-class matter in the Atlanta post-office, December 11, 1879.

ATLANTA, GA., JULY 30, 1881.

THE doctors of the white house very wisely discarded on Thursday carpets, and yesterday they gave the president Koumiss, a new article of food from the river Volga. Such doctors are certainly not too conservative. Let us hope the food of the Tartars will happily accommodate itself to the dyspeptic stomach of the president.

THE condition of the president is still satisfactory. He seems to be steadily regaining strength. And yet the fact remains that the skillful experienced surgeons who have charge of the case and who alone thoroughly understand it, do not pronounce their distinguished patient out of danger. They are hopeful, and even confident, but still they see possible troubles ahead. Until the six doctors unite in a statement that all danger is passed, the feeling of anxiety will remain in the hearts of the people.

THE general elections of France are to take place on the 21st of August when a new chamber of deputies is to be chosen. The government's Tunisean policy and M. Gambetta's scheme for electing deputies by departments, are the chief issues before the people, now that the intrigues of the legitimists and imperialists have become of small proportions. North African conquest is popular, and the desire to crush out refractory districts will probably suffice to secure a very large popular majority for the scrutin de liste.

THE death of Colonel John C. Burch, secretary of the United States senate, was not unexpected, as he had long been afflicted with a liver affection and dropsy. He was a native of Georgia, but when a young man removed, first, to Chattanooga, and afterwards to Nashville. Law and politics absorbed his energies, until he bought an interest in the Nashville American, of which he was the chief owner at the time of his death. He was only 53 years old when he died. In Tennessee he will long be remembered as one of the clearest-headed political managers that the state has ever known

THE defeat, or rather the annihilation, of the army that the ameer dispatched from Candahar to crush Ayoob Khan and occupy Herat, is the most important eastern event of the year. Fortunately for the ameer that England put upon the throne, there is an Anglo-India force near Candahar strong enough to hold that city and check any advance beyond it of the victorious Ayoob Khan. The defeat of the ameer must prove very embarrassing to Mr. Gladstone, who will be held responsible for the withdrawal of the British forces, and it will also prove very expensive to the Indian government, for the ameer will need aid to maintain his authority. Altogether, the invasion of Afghanistan has not been a happy piece of business for the English people.

"MURDER," says the Houston Home Journal, "has become such a common "occurrence in Georgia that it is consid-"ered state news, and is hardly ever pub-"lished except in the paper published "near where the crime was committed." The Journal certainly exaggerates the trouble of the situation. We do not claim that there are no murders, or even that they are few in number; but we do know that very few of them go unchronicled in THE CONSTITUTION. It is the intention and desire of THE CONSTITUTION to present the story of every crime against life in the state, and if our readers in distant and comparatively inaccessible localities will aid us no crime of magnitude will remain unheralded. To publish the story of great crimes is one of the best ways to prevent more of the same sort.

MR. J. C. HUESTON, who succeeds Mr. J. W. Simonton in the responsible office of general agent of the associated press, is a native of Louisiana. His father was a Louisiana journalist, and the son is a practical printer and telegrapher. He entered the news service as the New Orleans agent of the associated press, in which capacity his merit was first recognized. He was called to the New York office, and was then assigned to the London agency. He now takes charge of the whole concern, and those who know him best say that a more competent man could not be found for the place. Mr. Hueston is only thirty-eight years old. When he fairly gets the business in hand let us hope he will appreciate the importance of giving his southern patrons southern news as soon as the people of St. Paul or Oregon receive it, instead of twenty-four hours later.

What Colonel Cole's Charter Means

Every Georgian will remember the coal famine of last winter, when coal rose to $10 and $15 a ton and was often not attainable at any price.

In Macon, Atlanta and other cities it went beyond the reach of the poorer classes and hundreds of women and children suffered for the lack of it. It is not too much to say that death was caused by this exposure. Even the rich could not obtain coal, and many great houses were cheerless and cold. Machinery was stopped and men made enforcibly idle when every hour's work was necessary to the support of their families.

If Colonel Cole does not build his road we shall have the same trouble intensified and bitterer next year. With that road built we shall have two lines to the coal fields, and no danger of a coal famine, and no panic prices. Every citizen of Georgia is interested in the building of this road. If the legislature grants the needed charter the road will be built at once.

Some New Books.

We have already briefly noticed Mr. Howells's new story, "A Fearful Responsibility," which recently appeared in the June and July numbers of Scribner's Monthly. It has since been issued in book form by James R. Osgood & Co., of Boston, and, in this form, it will appeal to the sympathies of those who have heretofore enjoyed the genial humor and keen observation of the author. The story is in the nature of a sketch, and is, beyond question, the outgrowth and result of Mr. Junior Ja[...] [...]tantalizing me[...] Mr. Howells is a man of sensibility, and he has, without doubt, been impressed by Mr. James's curious efforts to dissect the refined ruffianism which Americans call culture, and by means of which they endeavor to make their way in that impressive business known as European society. Mr. James resents this endeavor with all the ardor of an unimpassioned and truly cosmopolitan nature, and his resentment is so exquisite—so too tootly and utterly utter—that Mr. Howells's has been tempted to export a trio of thoroughbred American mustangs into the atmosphere of Venice. The sketch is a reminder of Mr. James only in the plan, for Mr. Howells has not the patience nor the lack of human sympathy necessary to bring him into fellowship with the literary Majolicans. He deals with character and not with the trimmings thereof. His sketch, however, seems to lack a real literary basis, and its humor, together with a rather startling familiarity with the average married female mind—(not to be betrayed into circumlocution)—is its sole redeeming quality. There is no fearful responsibility after all, and the episode which serves as an excuse for the story is not worth relating, because it has no results. Nevertheless the exquisite literary skill of Mr. Howells gives interest, if not importance, to the sketch, and it is well worth reading; and, for our part, we are glad that he has had an opportunity to show that he is a failure as a Majolican.

In queer contrast is the story of "Lorimer and Wife," sent us by George W Harlan, New York—a volume with no marked literary merit. It is stated upon the title page, that the author, Margaret Lee, has written several other stories, and this may account for a certain knack of pursuing a narrative in a headlong way which crops out here and there in the book. If the book is to be read, it is best it were read quickly.

Messrs Estes & Lauriat, of Boston, send us the "Young Folks' History "of America," edited by Hezekiah Butterworth. This is altogether one of the most attractive histories we have seen. It is evidently prepared with great care, and, although written from a union standpoint, it is without the sting of partisanship. This is not by any means the least attractive feature of the volume. It is profusely illustrated, and the claim of the publishers that it is the handsomest young folks' history ever published is not at all unreasonable.

THE Mormons have obtained a foothold in White county. They have Sunday-schools and day schools in operation and are making every effort to impress and engage the minds of the young. Do the people of Georgia propose to allow the Mormon propagandists to work in peace and quiet? This is a question for the debating societies.

AN old man was arrested in New York recently for singing in the street. New York will be remembered as the city where thieves hold office and grow rich, while men who can be convicted of honesty are sent to the house of correction.

IT is understood that Mr. Conkling will start a newspaper in order to retaliate on Editor Watterson. Our readers are perhaps aware of the fact that Editor Watterson has been giving Conkling some very severe digs.

THE statement is made that Mahone is learning to swim. And yet it is not absolutely necessary for a political sharp to take to the water.

SOME of our northern exchanges are inclined to view Mormonism as a Georgia problem. The difficulty in the way of this is that the Mormon propaganda has established missions and recruiting stations in every state and territory of the union. In view of this fact, what does congress propose to do about it?

IF the state and general governments refuse to act, every community where Mormonism is attempting to secure a foothold should enact its own laws. Perhaps this is the best remedy after all. Mormonism must not only be driven out of the states, but out of Utah.

IT is not yet announced whether the Schurz plan of fattening up captured Indians for a midsummer massacre will be followed in the case of the Hon. Sitting Bull.

THE whole burden of public affairs seems by common consent, to be laid upon the shoulders of Crump.

GUITEAU has taken advantage of his imprisonment to study the constitution. If this is a result of his incarceration, all the members of the stalwart party should be caught and caged so that they may become thoroughly familiar with the spirit and purpose of the organic. In this way a new revolution can be avoided.

THE insanity which afflicted Edwin M. Stanton at the close of the war appears to have been contagious. Only on this theory can the capers of the republican leaders be explained.

WE have long suspected that Mr. Conkling had the making of a journalist in him. Like the average Chicago editor, he can furnish his own sensations.

IN GENERAL.

—There are 500 men in New York worth $3,000,000 or more.

—One of the Hartford, Ct., insurance companies paid $20,000 for postage last year

—By the new census there are in Ireland 3,951,888 Roman Catholics and 1,168,442 Protestants of all kinds.

—Mr. Conkling has been compared to a comet. Let us hope he is of the parobolic family, which it is said never returns.

—Mrs. Gaines, since the death of her son and only surviving child, at the hands of his brother-in-law, has the care of six grandchildren, all under 16 years of age.

—Dr. W. A. Hammond, who is known as a luminous and learned expert in all sorts of medical cases appears to have received a subpœna in the president's case as a "bear expert."

—J. W. Waterman is the name of a citizen of San Bernardino county, Cal., who is reported to have refused an offer from eastern parties of $2,500,000 for his wonderful silver mine.

—Before sending your son to a German university it might be well to furnish him with a supply of artificial noses. He is liable to have his New England pronouncer chopped off in a duel.—New York Commercial.

—Bishop Bedell, of Ohio, says that the fact is easily proved by satisfactory testimony that the present presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church is the 120th in direct line of succession from the Apostle John.

—Kentucky is feeling one of the effects of failing to punish desperadoes. Her strongest inducements fail to attract immigration from the old world. The Germans, particularly, have a bad opinion of the state, and refuse to seek homes there —Senators Lamar and George both think that Senator Beck is the ablest democratic member in the senate. Secretary Blaine once told Mr. Lamar that Beck was regarded by the republicans as "the hardest hitter and the strongest debater on your side of the chamber."

—Here are some of the men who would like the place made vacant by the death of Justice Clifford: Judge Cooley, of Michigan; secretary of the navy Hunt, Senator Edmunds, of Vermont; Chief Justice Gray, of Massachusetts; Nathan Webb and Judge John A. Peters, of Maine, and probably from a hundred to a thousand more.

—Of th[e] 689 missionaries in India the United S[tates s]ends 11[...] these Ohio sends 18; [...] 16. [...]ylvania, 12; Massachusetts, 7; Connecticut, 5; Illinois, 4; Kentucky, 3; Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire and Virginia, 2 each; Tennessee, Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa, 1 each; other states (or unknown), 29.

—The favorite flower of the emperor of Germany is the korn-blume or "kaiser blumchen," known in the United States as the bachelor's button, ragged robin or French pink. The story in regard to the liking of the emperor for this flower is that after his marriage it was worn at a ball by his first love, the Princess Radziwill, who knew that he is so color blind that he recognizes no color but blue.

—In Canada, from 1869 to 1880, local fire insurance companies paid out $106 in loses for every $100 received in premiums. Neither in the United States nor in Great Britain have insurance companies, taken as a whole, done a prosperous business in recent years. Unless some change is made, either in the policy of the companies or the practice of builders, big failures are ahead in the business in all these countries.

Voices From Georgia.

Elberton Gazette.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION will shortly be a mammoth eight-page paper. The success of this enterprising journal has been surprising, and it is worthy of it all. It is already an honor to the south.

Waynesboro Herald.

We learn from THE CONSTITUTION that opposition will be found in the legislature to the granting of charters to Colonel Cole's and General Gordon's railroads. The argument used is that in this way competition will be brought about with the State road. We do not think this a sufficient reason.

Albany News.

It is clearly the duty of the legislature to charter this new road unless better objections are brought out by its opponents than have yet been advanced. Georgia needs all the railroads and all the competing lines that she can get, and when northern capitalists come into the state and propose to build them with their own money and without the assistance of either the state or our people, there should be no obstacles thrown in their way.

Columbus Enquirer.

Why should polygamy, which is nothing less, be tolerated? True manhood is evidenced by the intuitive respect in which female reputation is held. Let our legislature enact and have executed such laws that will guard that virtue and honor which these shameless apostles would calumniate on account of ignorance. It is a national measure that no congressman should feel that his duty is discharged until an effort is made to rid the country of its base influences.

Cartersville Free Press.

We know of no piece of property so useless as a pistol. It can only be used for purposes of murder or shooting a fellow-being at close quarters—that is to say, such is about all the use the pistol is put to. It is unfit for sporting purposes. Then why the necessity of tolerating them? The legislature ought to see to it that some kind of embargo be put upon the sale of pistols and other dangerous weapons usually carried concealed. The flow of blood that tell the fatal work of the pistol ought to arouse legislation to its enormity.

Cartersville Free Press.

To meet the clamor for "retrenchment and reform," salaries were placed at figures which reflect no credit upon the state of Georgia. Gentlemen fit to fill the offices mentioned can make more money otherwise. We have always believed that our high public functionaries should have liberal salaries commensurate with the dignity and responsibilities of their several positions. If there be no constitutional barrier to its passage, we trust Mr. Jemison's bill will become the law as to the salaries attached to the several positions named in it.

DeKalb county News.

Any railroad company, not asking extraordinary powers, should not be refused a charter to build. But no fear need be entertained that the new road will in the least injure the state road. The latter road during the past winter was constantly blocked up and unable to carry the freight offered it. A second track is a necessity, and yet the state will never build it. The lessees certainly will not. It looks to us as if the legislature, in granting this charter, would only solve a problem which promises to prove a serious one. We trust there will be no serious opposition within the legislature, to the granting of the Cole charter.

Cochran Enterprise.

This cotton exposition is a great thing, and the eyes of the world are turned to it, and should it be a failure then who would be censured? Surely not Atlanta, but Georgia. What is Atlanta? Is it an outside town or city in which the state at large feels no interest? Atlanta is the proud capital of the proud empire state of the south, and shall Georgia and Georgians run the risk of losing the greatest boon that was ever offered them. "There is a time in every man's life when a fortune is in his grasp," is an aphorism that should hold good to communities and states as to individuals, and if ever Georgia's time is coming we look for it in this exposition. As to whether Atlanta can shoulder this huge thing is not the question. Atlanta is our capitol and it is the duty and privilege, and should be the pride of the state, not to merely assist, but to support the exposition. We favor, without any further argument, to the appropriation of the $20,000.

The Booming South.

Baltimore Sun.

The story told by the Atlanta correspondent of the New York Herald of the immense sum, aggregating a hundred million of dollars, which has been subscribed north of the Potomac and in Europe for the purchase and building of railroads at the south and the development of her industries, reads like a chapter taken from a romance in which syndicates, more wealthy than the fable Monte Cristo of Dumas, parcel out between them the whole territory of the south, to cover it with a network of railroads, open its mines, build factories and make its waste places blossom as the rose. It is well, after the devastation wrought by the war and the abolition of slavery, such material blessings should follow in their train, even though the men who dispense them expect to reap a profit from their energy and lavish expenditure of capital. They have done all they could do for the west, and now they are taking in hand the long neglected but much more promising south, facts which have been fully anticipated in the southern correspondence of the Sun. With the expansion of new enterprises will come large accessions of population, and before twenty years have passed the south, so largely now made up of agricultural communities, will be dotted over with furnaces and mills and factories of many kinds. In the benefit to be derived from these enterprises the city of Baltimore, through the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and its affiliated lines, now being pushed forward into the very heart of the south, will, in spite of formidable opposition, obtain that share to which she is entitled by her closer proximity to the south, and by the excellent markets she presents for the sale or export of southern products.

How the Little Princesses Dress.

Philadelphia Times.

LONDON, July 12.—As to the little girls, if I were asked to name those who, being the children of a lady, are uniformly most plainly dressed and who conduct themselves most modestly, of all such in England, I should say at once, "the little princesses of Wales." I have seen them at the opera, with their parents, when, on one occasion, the little one getting sleepy, her mother took her up on her lap and let her sleep there on her knees all the evening; I have seen them at charitable ceremonies which were attended by much pomp and circumstance; I have seen them riding, driving, walking, boating, and on none of these occasions, I venture to say, did the wearing apparel of each one of the little girls exceed in cost a ten dollar bill. A simple white muslin frock, undecorated by any lace, unrelieved by any silk slip or expensive sash, formed the opera costume; the winter or boating dresses are of serge, the summer dresses of washing prints. And all are made in the simplest style, no gofferings, puckerings, flouncings; no bias bands, no knife-pleatings. No feathers in the hats; no furbelows anywhere. Would that the "Miss Lofties," of America, those vulgar and tasteless creatures who at the present time at the watering places all over the country are making the bodies of their children a mere means of parading their power to spend money, and who are ruining the moral health of their offspring by inculcating in these impressionable young breasts a mad passion for personal adornments; would that these silly and reprehensible mothers, I say, could be here to see the pattern set in this matter by the princess of Wales.

A Saratoga Belle's Dresses.

Saratoga letter.

Do you see that lovely blonde coming toward us? Rumor is rife with her, and she furnishes much food for the gossips, writes a Saratoga correspondent. One of the things said of her is that her wardrobe consists of 3 0 dresses! I am not exaggerating Dame Grundy's bulletin one iota. Now I happen to be a friend of the lady, and, therefore, can give facts concerning her. She is Mrs. T——y, wife of a wealthy St. Louis banker, the possessor of more, in quantity and quality, of diamonds than any other lady in Saratoga. At night she is literally ablaze with precious stones. Her husband dotes on her, and gratifies her every whim. In regard to her dresses, she has not quite 300. But this she can do—remain here two months, change twice a day, and never appear in the same costume. Why, there is a woman in St Louis who supports her family by the embroidery she does for Mrs. T. As soon as the new costume is decided upon, stockings, handkerchiefs, gloves and parasol are given the artist to embroider in color and design to match the dress. With all her wealth she is one of the most unassuming ladies to be met with, though, as you can imagine, she excites a great deal of envy.

A Good Proposition.

Baltimore Gazette.

The Georgia legislature is considering a bill prescribing imprisonment for life to lunatic murderers. Arguments in favor of the bill are to the effect that the more atrocious and inexcusable the murder the more certainly does the plea of insanity prevail with juries; so that a very large percentage of murder trials degenerate into ghastly farces, and even-handed justice becomes a jest and a mockery. At present an alleged insane murderer is turned over to the custody of his relatives, or, at most, is confined in an asylum for a brief period, and then turned loose to the opportunity of exercising his homicidal proclivities ad libitum. In view of this undeniable state of affairs the proposed Georgia law is a good one and should be enacted in all the states. It will assuredly have a tendency to diminish the census of murders.

What the President Should Do.

Baltimore Sun.

It would be a graceful thing for the president to do to give the seat so lately occupied by Justice Clifford to a conservative democrat, and, if possible, to one from the south. It is not probable that he would be able, any more than the late Justice Clifford, to change the opinions of the majority of his republican colleagues; but it would be a concession alike to the democracy, numbering one half, or nearly one-half of the voters of the union, and to the states of the south, which have now no representative in the supreme court, where they have vital interests at stake.

Altogether Too Public.

New York Tribune.

In his zeal to avoid a combination between church and state the gifted Governor Roberts, of Texas, has set the cause of religion in that commonwealth back at least a decade. Judging from their newspapers, the entire population are devoting themselves to a loud and boisterous outburst of profanity aimed directly at the governor's head. The most common expression of the grievance is that while the people of the state have no objection to Mr. Roberts making a fool of himself in a private way, they do object most strenuously to his displaying himself in that way as governor of the state.

Democracy's Only Road to Success.

Brooklyn Eagle, dem.

So far as the democrats are concerned, it is clear that their future depends upon the better men of the party getting control of its affairs and putting it unmistakably on the side of plain manhood and individual enterprise, against all the snobbery of a so-called strong government and all the intolerable pretensions set up by the great monopolists and stock speculators of our day and generation.

Thirty-two in a Family.

Evansville Journal.

A correspondent writing from Washington, Ind., says: "Here lies the youngest of twenty-nine brothers and three sisters." Such is the inscription [...] stone that marks the last [...] place of General Marston G. Clark, at Salem, Washington county, Ind. He was a brave man and a good soldier. The victory gained at the battle of Tippecanoe was owing to his good generalship. It was for him that Clark county was named.

—Lord Odo Russell is quoted as telling an amusing story concerning his kinsman the late earl. When Queen Victoria wished to confer the Order of the Garter on Lord John, the old gentleman took up his pen, and, while "humbly and dutifully" thanking her majesty, remarked: "I cannot, however accept your majesty's gracious offer, unless my brother (the late duke of Bedford) will pay the herald's fees, for I really have not the money." It is added that the duke got such a hint from royalty forthwith that he paid the twelve hundred pounds immediately, though he had not the reputation of liking to part with his money, and that Lord John got the Garter directly.

Fairbanks Scales in Australia.

The Australian correspondent of the "American Mail and Export Journal," in speaking of the Exhibits of American manufacturers at the Melbourne International Exhibition, under date of April 20th, 1881, writes as follows:

"Under the heading of 'Office-Fittings and Stationery,' we find the following high compliment paid to a gold medalist of many an International Exhibition. The chairman of the Jury, in his report, tells the Commissioners that Fairbanks & Co., St. Johnsbury, Vt., and New York, United States, exhibited postal letter balances, with both double and single beam, and possessing that beauty and accuracy of finish, for which this description of goods from the United States is so justly famed. A first order of merit is awarded them. This is a fourth First Degree of Merit given to Fairbanks & Co. at the Melbourne International Exhibition, and surely a gold medal will follow. The exhibitors obtained the highest award in London in 1851, New York in 1853, Paris 1867, Vienna in 1873, Santiago in 1875, Philadelphia 1876, Sydney 1877, Paris 1878, and at the Sydney International Exhibition in 1880, in competition with the manufacturers of the United States and from all nations of the world, a special award above all others was given to Fairbanks Scales."

News has just been received that a Gold Medal has been awarded, as predicted, to Fairbanks & Co., the only one awarded any Scale manufacturer from the United States.

CELERY

As a Remedy for Nervous Diseases.

WHAT THE MEDICAL PROFESSION SAY ABOUT IT,

—AND—

The Good Results Attending Its Use

—IN—

Headache, Neuralgia, Nervousness, Indigestion, Sleeplessness and Paralysis.

CELERY has come into public notice within the last few years as a nervine, but scientific experiments and experience have proved beyond a doubt that it controls nervous irritation and periodic nervous and sick headaches to a marked degree.

Brown-Sequard says that Celery contains more nerve food than any other vegetable or substance found in nature. Celery was first discovered and used as a nervine by French physicians about 1867. But a combination of the EXTRACT OF CELERY AND CHAMOMILE, which has been but recently introduced to the profession and the public by Dr. C. W. Benson, has produced such marvellous results in curing nervousness and headaches, and especially nervous and sick headaches, neuralgia, paralysis, indigestion and sleeplessness, that it has excited public attention and newspaper comments, and many physicians have tested the merits of this preparation with the best results, as quoted below from a few:

WHAT PHYSICIANS SAY.

"Dr. Benson's preparation of Celery and Chamomile for nervous diseases is the most important addition made to the materia medica in the last quarter of century."—Dr. J. W. J. Englar, of Baltimore.

"These Pills are invaluable in nervous diseases."—Dr. Hammond, of New York.

"Dr. Benson's Pills are worth their weight in gold in nervous and sick headache."—Dr. A. H. Schlichter, of Baltimore.

"Dr. Benson's Pills for the cure of neuralgia are a success."—Dr. G. P. Holman, of Christiansburg, Va.

These Pills are a special preparation, only for the cure of special diseases, as named, and for these diseases they are worthy of a trial by all intelligent sufferers. They are prepared expressly to cure sick headache, nervous headache, dyspeptic headache, neuralgia, nervousness, paralysis, sleeplessness and indigestion, and will cure any case. Price 50 cents, postage free. Sold by all druggists. Depot, 106 North Eutaw st., Baltimore. Atlanta Depot at LAMAR, RANKIN & LAMAR'S Drug Store, corner of Pryor and Decatur streets.

—A Calcutta criminal was recently allowed to address the crowd from the scaffold. He turned to them and in a loud voice thundered out: "All those within the sound of my voice listen to my dying speech and confession. For this "ad." the firm paid the man's family, according to agreement, $5,000.

How to Get Well.

Thousands of persons are constantly troubled with a combination of diseases. Diseased kidneys and costive bowels are their tormentors. They should know that Kidney-Wort acts on these organs at the same time, causing them to throw off the poisons that have clogged them, and so renewing the whole man. Hundreds testify to this.—Pittsburgh Post.

—To find the new comet look in the northeast sky shortly before sunrise and see near the horizon a bright morning star, Alpha Auriga. Just below this, to the left, see another, dimmer star, Beta Auriga. Then with your opera-glass see below Beta, and almost in a line with it and Alpha, the comet. This comet will soon pass into the constellation of the Lynx and then into the Great Bear, when it will be brightest. It will then pass through Virgo, and disappear south of the equator. When nearest the sun it will also be nearest the earth, and fortunately, the moon at that time will be absent.

THE COTTON MARKET.

CONSTITUTION OFFICE, Atlanta, July 29 1881

New York—The cotton market was not so active this week and a quiet and steady tone has generally prevailed. The undertone, however, has not lacked for strength, and the market has possessed a settled firmness which resulted in a moderate advance. During the early and middle of the week there was much irregularity in the movement of quotations, but at the close a steady advance set in, which, at the close to day, puts the months about 10@25 points ahead of the quotations of a week ago. The summer months continue to attract the most attention and were subject to most activity. At the close to-day futures were of upward tendency and a further advance is looked for next week. The spot market has shown considerable firmness, and the advance to-day places middling 11⅝c, thus showing a gain of ⅜c for the week; market firm.

Net receipts for the week ending to-day amount to 16,412 bales, against 19,494 bales last week and against 10,312 bales for the corresponding week last year; exports for the week 33,131 bales, against 15,424 bales for the same week last year; stock 261,956 bales, against 201,879 bales same time last year.

Below we give the opening and closing quotations of cotton futures in New York to-day:

Closed steady; sales 54,000 bales.

Liverpool—Futures closed quiet and steady spots—Uplands 6 13-16d; Orleans 6⅞d; sales 12,000 bales, of which 10,200 bales were American; receipts 12,000; American 8,100.

The local market possesses a firm tone, and we are able to note an increased demand for cotton. Quotations, however, are unchanged, though the tendency of the market may authorize an upward movement at an early day. Futures have been reasonably active. The condition of the cotton crop is attracting most attention at present, and the bull sentiment seems to prevail. The drouth has materially damaged the cotton in many sections, and throughout the cotton states we hear of no little complaint. The worm has also made its appearance in many places with the usual disastrous results. Particularly is this the case the further west we go. Everything considered, the prospects are not favorable, and an ordinary yield is all that can be counted on. Receipts for the week ending to day amount to 217 bales. We quote: Good middling 10⅝c; middling 10½c; low middling 10c; strict good ordinary 9½c; good ordinary 8½c; ordinary 7c.

GENTLEMEN: I was suffering from general debility to such an extent that my labor was exceedingly burdensome to me. A vacation of a month did not give me much relief, but on the contrary, was followed by increased prostration and sinking chills. At this time I began the use of your IRON TONIC, from which I realized almost immediate and wonderful results. The old energy returned and I found that my natural force was not permanently abated. I have used three bottles of the Tonic. Since using it I have done twice the labor that I ever did in the same time during my illness, and with double the ease. With the tranquil nerve and vigor of body, has come also a clearness of thought never before enjoyed. If the Tonic has not done the work, I know not what. I give it the credit. J. P. WATSON, Pastor Christian Church, Troy, O.

The Iron Tonic is a preparation of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark, and Phosphates, associated with the Vegetable Aromatics. It serves every purpose where a Tonic is necessary.

Something About the Railroad Men.

"Yes," said Alex Thweat, the assistant ticket agent at the Central window yesterday, "travel is big to-day. The Air Line train went out crowded. The fast mail came in with a big delegation. The Central and West Point brought up many passengers, and the State road and Georgia road added a big number to the already large crowd of arrivals. The trains that went out to day also carried many passengers and travel had a boom."

SLEEPING WITH A CORPSE.

An Old Colored Woman Found Dead in Bed

Yesterday morning about ten o'clock Coroner Hilburn held an inquest on the body of Nellie Bullock, colored, at 32 Fulton street. The circumstance which gave rise to the necessity for the inquest can be explained as follows: Thursday night the woman, who was about sixty-nine years of age, retired in more than usually good health. He daughter occupied the same bed, and throughout the night was not awakened by anything unusual. About four o'clock yesterday morning the girl attempted to awake her mother but she could not be aroused. The negroes in the adjoining room were called and on examination the woman was found to be dead. The evidence revealed the facts above stated, and Dr. Boring, county physician, made an examination and gave his opinion of the case. The jury then made the following verdict:

We, the jury empannelled and sworn to investigate the cause of the death of Nellie Bullock, find from the evidence adduced that she came to her death from a chronic case of heart disease
D. JONES, Foreman.
F. A. HILBURN, Coroner.

An Old Charge.

Several weeks ago Dr. Norman's house on Ellis street, was entered and robbed of a fine suit of clothes, some jewelry, and a small amount of money. Soon after the crime was committed the police department was made acquainted with the fact, and given a description of the stolen articles. Yesterday morning the suit of clothes was traced to Will Bowen, one of Atlanta's most accomplished crooks, and an arrest was the result. Bowen can give no satisfactory account of his possession of the goods and to day a warrant charging him with burglary will be sworn out

Who Stole the Birds?

Several days ago a canary was stolen from Mr. L. DeGive's residence, and every since the theft was committed a diligent search has been made for the thief. Yesterday evidence sufficient to convict was procured against Nat Arrington, who is now in the city chain gang working out a fine recently imposed. As soon as Nat is released he will be taken on a warrant charging him with larceny.

Yesterday evening a thief entered the yard in front of Mr. H. C. Leonard's house, 45 Houston street, and stole from the front porch a canary bird and cage.

For Burglary.

Annie Miller, a colored woman, was yesterday arrested by Officer Baird upon a warrant charging her with burglary. The evidence against Annie induces the belief that he entered the house of Mrs. Eliza Hall, on Fraser street, yesterday morning and stole a breast pin made of a five dollar gold piece, a bunch of keys, some clothing, a small amount of money and several articles of wearing apparel. Some of the missing property was found in Annie's possession, and to-day she will be required to show cause why she should not be committed to jail.

United States Commissioners Court.

Yesterday in the commissioners court of W. B. Smith, the following cases were heard:

United States vs. Jake Connally, arrested at Red Oak by Deputy Pirkle, on a charge of working in an illicit distillery. Waived preliminary examination and gave bond.

Beverly Thurman, of East Point, charge, illicit retailing, bound over.

Oliver Nicholson, Red Oak, conspiracy, committed for further hearing.

Before the Railroad Commission.

Mr. H. S. Haynes, general manager of the Savannah, Florida and Western railroad, whose arrival in his special car was noticed in Thursday's issue of this journal, was yesterday morning given an audience by the railroad commission. Mr. Haynes's talk was relative to an increase of rates. The commission was again in session during the afternoon, but the result of their labors has not yet been made public.

A Smash-Up.

Last night just before nine o'clock a gentleman and lady in a buggy were driving rapidly down Decatur street, and when near the young men's library ran over a dray that was standing in that locality. The occupants of the buggy were thrown out and both sustained severe bruises.

For Participating in the Church Row.

In the police court yesterday morning fourteen colored individuals were tried for participating in the row at Mount Zion church Wednesday night. The evidence against ten would not warrant a fine, but Robert Cloud, Harry Williams, Laura Walker and Norma Lewis were asssessed ten dollars each.

Badly Bruised.

A short while after dark yesterday evening, a buggy collided with a dray on Decatur street near Peachtree, and was badly broken up. A lady and gentleman were thrown from the buggy and both badly bruised The lady's back was slightly hurt while the gentleman received several ugly cuts about the head and face. Their names could not be ascertained as the gentleman declined to talk.

Stealing Generally.

Ella Robinson, a colored woman, was arrested last night by Captain Starnes upon a warrant charging her with larceny. It is alleged that Ella entered the house of Dr. Jones, on Pryor street, and stole a wash tub, wash board, some silverware and a quantity of provisions. The theft was committed yesterday morning.

Almost a Fatal Fall.

About 10 o'clock last night Mr. Dan M. Cabaniss, of this city, fell from a window in the Kimball house and received serious and painful injuries.

Mr. Cabaniss was on the arcade of the third floor, near one of the windows, and looking out saw what he thought was a porch. Feeling oppressed by the heat and thinking to find a more agreeable temperature, he stepped from the window, but instead of stepping upon a porch Mr. Cabaniss stepped upon an awning over the veranda, even with the second floor of the building. The awning was not strong and Mr. Cabaniss's weight was too much for it The cloth gave way, and in an instant the gentleman was lying upon the porch below, a distance of about twenty feet, in an almost lifeless condition. The news spread rapidly through the large audience that had congregated to hear the arcade concert, and quite a stampede was the result. The unfortunate gentleman was picked up by friends and removed to a room in the hotel where Drs Knott, Hodgehill, Stroud and Peck did all in their power to relieve his sufferings. An examination showed that his injuries were not as great as they were at first supposed to be. The left arm was found to be broken just above the wrist and dislocated at the elbow. His face was also slightly bruised by the fall, one bad cut having been made on the forehead. Many of his friends were soon beside him administering to his wants and doing everything to relieve his suffering. He was resting quietly at midnight and his physicians think his injuries comparatively slight.

Mr. Cabaniss came to Atlanta from Forsyth a few months ago, and since his residence here has won a host of friends who will regret to learn of his misfortune. It is to be hoped that his injuries are yet slighter than his physicians think and that he will soon recover.

At the time Mr. Cabaniss stepped from the window he was with a young lady, and but for the fact that he was slightly in advance of her the two would have fallen together.

Important Gold Mine Sale.

The Harris branch gold mines was sold yesterday by Mr. I. Y. Sawtell to Messrs. C. W. Short and C. L. Mitchell, of Cincinnati, for $35,000 cash. These parties formerly bought $175,000 worth of property in Dawson county, making $210,000 the property has cost them. The Harris branch property takes in two miles of the Etowah river, the bed of which has proven to be immensely rich The owners are going to begin immediately to cut a canal to change the bed of the river at a cost of $75,000; also put up a 100 stamp mill at an enormous expense. They have been successfully operating a 30 stamp mill on property north of this. The dirt is washed by hydraulic process, the water being brought 90 miles through a canal from the Amacolola river at a cost of $50,000 There are now about 100 hands at work, and the force will be doubled in a few days. This property was surveyed and tested by Mr. A. L Anderson, of Cincinnati, and was through his flattering report that the property was bought.

The Washerwomen.

Dora Shorter and Annie King, two more of the belligerent washerwomen, were yesterday before Recorder Glenn for trial. The charge against the duet was disorderly conduct and quarreling and the evidence sustained the charge. Recorder Glenn imposed a fine of twenty dollars against each, and in disposing of the cases said: "In these cases I will impose a fine of twenty dollars upon each of the defendants, but hereafter, when the evidence is as conclusive as it is here, I will punish the offenders by sending them to the city chain gang."

Long Way from Home.

A gentleman residing in Atlanta received a letter yesterday from a friend at Colorado Springs, and in order to show that the Atlanta cotton mills are not a local affair, the following extract from the letter is published:

"While on the Arkansas river, as I came this way, I saw a wagon going from the mountains back east It was covered with cotton branded, 'Atlanta mills sheeting' Quite an item for Atlanta—1,700 miles away."

Selling His Jerseys.

Mr. W. B Cox of this city yesterday sold a fine herd of Jerseys to Mr. L. J. Hill, for $5,000. The herd consists of sixteen heifers, three cows, two heifer calves one four year-old bull and two bull calves. Mr. Hill will send his purchase to his plantation in Coweta county. Mr. Hill now claims to be the possessor of one of the finest herds in Georgia.

Oratorio of Danial.

The management of Oratorio of Daniel having kindly consented to a repetition on Monday night next, and having retained the costumes at increased expense, we trust that our appreciative people will see to it that the affair is a complete success so far as the attendance is concerned. Prices have been reduced to come within the reach of all. Let there be a full house on Monday night.

Since the presentation of the general local option petition before the legislature, 2,097 additional signatures have come in, and have been handed by the Woman's Christian temperance union to Colonel Northen, of Hancock county.

CAN SUCH THINGS BE?

A Very Sad Story One Woman at Long Branch Tells on Another.

Clara Belle in Cincinnati Enquirer.

Rows of windows in this hotel open from the guests' rooms right upon the verandas, so that you sleep within a foot or two of the gay promenaders. On hot nights you leave the sash open, merely pulling down the thin curtain and closing the shutters. Thus, if you go to bed early, you lie there and listen to the stepping and talking of the people on the other side of the partition; or, if your room is in a more secluded part of the house, you may be entertained by the cooing of a pair of lovers close to your window. Well, as I was sauntering along a veranda, at nine o'clock last evening, I glanced by chance through the open slats of a shutter, and saw my beauty with the bad eyes lying in her bed. She made such a striking picture that I stopped still to admire it. She lay on her back, with a sheet covering her to the breast. One bare arm was thrown carelessly over her head, where her loose brown hair was tumbled over it, while the other lay delicately pink on the white sheet. Her eyes were shut and the heaviness of the lids was thereby hidden. With the only weak point in her beauty thus hidden she was indeed lovely. I thought her fast asleep, of course, for the lace covered bosom rose and fell with regular breathing and her red relaxed lips gave a glimpse of pearly teeth. As I stood for a minute taking in the sight several men came around the corner of the veranda and I heard one say something about never minding and coming again. Then they passed on. I comprehended instantly. Somebody had told them of the sleeping beauty and they had come around to look in at her. I was ashamed for the woman and resolved to protect her. I closed the slats of the shutter as tight as a drum and moved on to a shadowy angle ten feet away. Looking back presently, I saw the shutter's opened just as they were before—opened from the inside! Could it be possible that the woman was only feigning sleep in order to pose effectively and with seeming unconsciousness? Yes; it could be and it was. I went past the window again and glanced in. She had resumed her posture abed and was simulating the sleep of blushing innocence. What wretches we are!

True Greatness a Public Merit.

It is the pride of America that she offers an opportunity to the humblest person within her borders to become great. Some have greatness thrust upon them, while others, in a manner peculiar only to themselves, plod onward and upward, till their well-earned fame becomes a household word, and their very existence almost a necessity which cannot be easily dispensed with. Of the latter sort their usefulness is at all times fairly appreciated in the community where they live, and it is a pleasurable task to speak words of praise in their behalf. But when you say in print of man that he is a tried man, your judgment is made more valuable by adding the name of the court in which the trial took place.

Now, we have a man in this city who is a tried man, and whose name has become not only a household word but his fame extends throughout the length and breadth of the circuit in which the trade of Atlanta reaches. His greatness was not thrust upon him, but he has acquired it by the dint of hard ploddings, untiring perseverance, and a scrupulous and undivided attention to his business, allowing no slight impediment to obstruct a business career which had its commencement in an humble origin, and has now attained most splendid proportions.

We refer to William H. Brotherton, whose grand emporium, standing on the corner of Whitehall and Mitchell streets, is a monument to the success and business integrity of a man who has devoted his time and talents as much for the public benefit as he has to advance his individual pecuniary interest. The tribunal which has passed judgment on his merits and declared him worthy of praise, is the host of numerous customers who daily throng his extensive establishment, and those who hourly examine the long list of bargains which he has set before a wistful public of goods in every line which are to be found in a first-class dry goods emporium.

We recently have had occasion to pass through the portals of his well-regulated institution, whose lustre surpasses anything of like character in the south, and have examined it in detail. To assert that the building he owns and occupies is one of the most commodious and elegantly arranged of any in the state, is sufficient to obtain the approval of every person who has ever seen it and had opportunity to compare it with others. Thoroughly filled with the bright light of day, anyone who enters it with the business of examining the goods found therein, have the fullest opportunity to make their examination perfect and complete without the aid of artificial lights which are so frequently required in many dingy and imperfectly lighted store houses. Indeed, we believe that this establishment is the only one in this city where this arrangement is found so perfect, and the advantages thereof are immeasurably perceptible in the fact that there is not the slightest danger of having palmed off on a purchaser an inferior or damaged article for one that is represented as different. There can be no deception practiced on this score even if it were attempted, which is not the case here, as it is an invariable rule with Captain Brotherton and his corps of able assistants to state truly the real value and merit of every article offered by them for sale.

We intended to give a full and complete description of all that we saw in this establishment when we visited it, but we find it would be next to impossible were sufficient space at our command to do so. On the right hand as you enter is the dress goods department in full line, a perfect marvel for cheapness, style and beauty, which will please not only the most fastidious but also will gratify the desire of the most economical and prudent lady in the land. To enumerate in part, here you will find plain all wool Black Buntings at 15c per yard, and Lace Buntings at the same price, which cannot be duplicated short of New York city. Brocade Lace Buntings and fancy Brocades at 20c and 25c per yard; Crepe Cloths for the same figures; Black Cashmeres in innumerable variety and style from 30c up; summer Silks, striped and plain, at 50c; Satins, black and colored, the equal of which cannot be found elsewhere, either as to quality or price; Victoria and Bishop Lawns, Check Nainsook, Lawns in every style from 10c up to 50c. He has the biggest line of Laces in the city, which are offered for sale at a mere figment of price, considering their quality and beautiful texture. Gloves, Hosiery, etc, etc., of the most fashionable and stylish kinds. Ribbons, ladies' and gents' Ties of every description and in all colors.

A little further on is his stock of parasols, etc.—silk, Japanese and plain. Just think of a silk umbrella twenty-six inches for the paltry sum of $1 50. The line of table Linens, Towels, etc, etc., in damask and plain, cannot be equalled. This department is just perfect and complete.

On the left is the Shoe Department, most perfect and complete Below is the ready-made Clothing Department for gents and boys. Here we found that a tremendous reduction in price has been made—suits just too cheap for anything. Indeed, it looked like robbery to think that they can be bought for the prices fixed.

Then there is the five, ten, fifteen, twenty, twenty-five cent counters, absolutely groaning under the weight of the innumerable articles necessary in household and culinary affairs. Glassware, tinware, cutlery, waiters, soaps, vases, mats, etc., etc., of the most unique kind that are almost given away. And then there are the toys for children. No wonder there is such a rush, for here you can obtain many handsome and useful things at one-fourth their real value at least.

We have not the time to explore further, and the self-assumed task is too arduous to be fully and satisfactorily completed, and, therefore, we insist upon all of our readers to give this establishment an early visit. Remember when you are in the city to be sure and visit W. H. Brotherton, at the corner of Whitehall and Mitchell streets.
